

Coggno to Provide Free Learning Management Solution Platform for K-12 Education Institutions

'Teach Free' Solution Enables Teachers to Deliver Curriculum Materials to Students While Collaborating With and Tracking Progress Online

Feb. 28, 2013 - San Jose, CA - Feb 28, 2013 - Coggno, an online training marketplace and eLearning solution provider, today announced that it will offer its online learning management solution free of charge to qualified educators within the K-12 education system as part of their Teach Free program. The Teach Free program provides educators an opportunity to deliver online curriculum and exams in a variety of formats to their students free of charge via the Internet.

“The use of technology to deliver online learning materials in the corporate world as well as the K-12 public school level is growing rapidly, but for many teachers, access to an online learning management solution (LMS) can be a barrier to entry due to budget constraints in our public school system,” said Tod Browndorf, CEO of Coggno Inc. “We are pleased to provide Coggno’s powerful yet easy to use LMS free of charge to teachers via our Teach Free program to provide an eLearning platform that enables them to reach their students via the Internet.”

Coggno is a leading online training marketplace that brings together creators and users of online training and certification in a single, comprehensive ecosystem. With over 5,000 online training courses, Coggno is used by leading corporations and higher education institutions throughout the world. A full suite of management tools enable training providers and users to track progress, take tests, and generate certificates of completion at an individual pace for each user.

To take part in Coggno’s Teach Free program, educators in the K-12 public school system can visit <http://coggno.com/lms/teachfree>. Space is limited, and certain restrictions may apply.

About Coggno

Coggno is an online training marketplace and learning management system (LMS) that brings together content creators, HR organizations, and employees in a single, cloud-based ecosystem – enabling simplified training and certification anywhere in the world. Our comprehensive marketplace features thousands of high-quality training courses created by world-class training developers, and covers virtually all industries – including human resources, management, healthcare, safety, and many others. Coggno provides a “one stop shop” resource to meet all your specific education and training needs, and provides simple, efficient delivery via a robust LMS platform. Coggno also offers a unique syndication model, enabling organizations to offer training courses directly from their website, providing an additional service to their customers and a new revenue stream for their business. For more information on the Coggno ecosystem, please visit our website at: www.coggno.com

Contact

Coggno Inc.
888-585-9978
pia@coggno.com